from the editor

I've been trying to pinpoint my favourite thing about fall, and I find it just about impossible to list only one highlight. From enjoying Halloween activities with my young daughters (yes, we just welcomed our second child this fall—that's certainly a highlight!), to curling up under a blanket on a chilly afternoon with my pups, there is much I adore about autumn.

If, like me, you find yourself with many blessings, you'll love our Make it Mini feature (pg. 21), which includes some of the most impressive gratitude journals and mini albums I've seen!

And if your four-legged friend is helping keep your tootsies warm as you read this, you'll definitely want to turn to page 43, where we have an assortment of pet-themed scrapbook pages you'll roll over flip for!

Want to warm up your technique prowess as the temps drop? Jennifer McGuire has just the thing—heat embossing techniques beyond the basics (pg. 37).

We've also covered the full fall spectrum in our inspiring Readers' Gallery (pg. 63). This issue is a cornucopia of ideas, from capturing everyday autumn memories and back to school adventures to sending happy hellos and scrapbooking your best dressed this Halloween.

Clearly, I'm indecisive. Just as I'm unable to select a single aspect of autumn to top my list, I'm unable to narrow in on a single element of this issue to love the most. As you flip through the pages, I hope you'll find yourself saying the same as you flag many project favourites.

Speaking of favourites, you're ours! During this season of thanks, please know how very thankful we are for you. You make what we do possible and more importantly, you make it fun. Thank you for being a part of the Scrapbook & Cards Today community and making it a happy and inspiring place to be!

Warmly,

Megan

step up your snapshots

Back to basics: composition. BY ELISHA SNOW

There are many tips and tricks to learn when it comes to knowing how to take fantastic photos. But knowing and practicing the very basics of photography composition can propel your talent and passion far beyond any other secret of the trade. Here are three basics of composition to get you started on the right track:

CAMERA SETTINGS: Canon 85mm f/1.8 lens; ISO 100; 1/800; f/1.8

understanding angles

When taking photos, it's natural to simply hold the camera up to eye level and snap the shot from where you're currently positioned. Instead, try shooting above, below, to the side, or behind your subject for a more creative outcome.

rule of thirds

To employ the Rule of Thirds, mentally divide your photo frame into thirds (both horizontally and vertically) with invisible lines. For best results, your subject should be placed at one of the four intersecting points where the lines cross. This results in a more dynamic and interesting photo every time!

CAMERA SETTINGS: Canon 85mm f/1.8 lens; ISO 100; 1/400; f/3.5

backgrounds

Always be aware of your background, keeping an eye out for distracting objects and colours. If there are distractions that can't easily be removed from the shot, try repositioning yourself or your subject. Also, the horizon line (another important background element) should remain as straight and level as possible.

CAMERA SETTINGS: Canon 24-70mm f/2.8L lens; ISO 200; 1/200; f/2.8

Visit our website for more of Elisha's tips on photo composition.

Jennifer Gallacher

Since this issue's challenge didn't provide a great deal of embellishment options,

Jennifer took to her scissors and created her own "die cuts." She fussy cut the globe, pencil, labels, and books from the journaling card patterned paper in this collection—brilliant!

tip: Punched and torn paper strips can take a basic design to the head of the class by adding texture and a decorative edge to pieces that would otherwise be straight and narrow.

school day

additional supplies PUNCHES: Fiskars, Stampin' Up!; DATE STAMP: Project Life; INK: Tsukineko; ELECTRONIC CUT FILE: Silhouette; ADHESIVE: Therm O Web; OTHER: Stapler, staples.

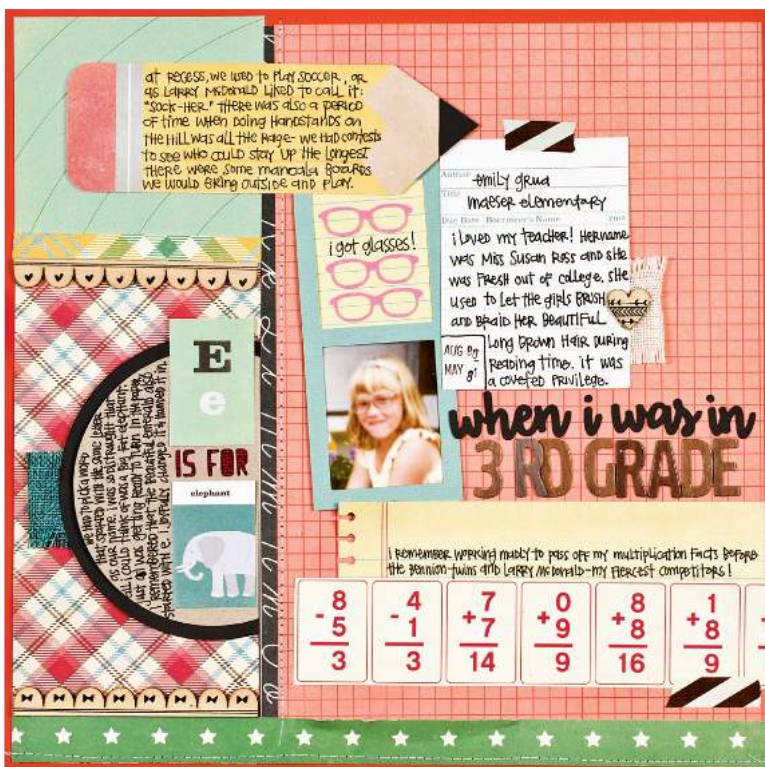

Emily Pitts

For a fun twist on this already cute pencil journaling card, Emily cut around the pencil shape and popped it up with foam adhesive. Using 3D adhesive is a quick way to give any flat element added emphasis and prominence.

tip: The vintage-inspired flashcards and blackboard motif immediately took Emily back to her grade school days. If products ever remind you of your youth, seize the day and take the opportunity to tell your own stories of days gone by. Your family will be glad you did.

when I was in third grade additional supplies PEN: Uniball; ADHESIVE: Scrapbook Adhesives by 3L.

Sheri Reguly

Seeking an embellishment option that would add some texture, Sheri took a DIY approach. She covered wood veneer pieces with the washi tape strips to create flower centers and cut leaves from the burlap trim to complete her bloom. An A+ in agriculture and creativity go to this girl!

tip: Journaling cards often include inspiring sentiments. If you don't have the space for a full 6 x 4 journaling card, simply trim the statement in strips and adhere them to the page.

project: trend

A report on the latest trend-setting products hitting the scrapbook runway (and scrapbook stores).

This issue: string art. BY VICKI BOUTIN

I fondly remember creating art with nails and thread as a little girl; weaving a variety of fun patterns on wood boards. This was an art form known as string art and, my friends... it's back! Whether it's a great welcome sign made from intricately arranged threads, a twine-wrapped monogram, or a Spirograph-themed greeting card, projects made with twine are winding up everywhere. Take a look at ways you can incorporate this blast-from-the-past trend into a few fun paper projects.

tip: When designing using twine and brads, simple patterns work best. Brads are short and don't leave room for much wrapping.

STRING FLING TECHNIQUE: Brad & Twine Weaving

You don't need wood, nails, and yarn to create a groovy string art design. Instead, try paper, brads, and baker's twine to achieve this look on a layout.

this girl

supplies CARDSTOCK: Bazzill Basics; PATTERNED PAPER, CHIPBOARD, DIE CUT SHAPES, STICKERS: Simple Stories; ENAMEL DOTS: Queen & Co., Simple Stories; ADHESIVE: Scrapbook Adhesives by 3L.

STRING FLING TECHNIQUE:

Twine-Covered Wire Word

Add texture to your wire creations using string. Simply wrap large-gauge jewelry wire with twine and bend the wrapped wire into a shape or word.

STRING FLING TECHNIQUE: Spirelli String Art

Wrap string or twine around a scalloped shape to create a trendy and touchable embellishment. To vary the look, try leaving different amounts of space between each wrap from one scallop to the next.

tip: This technique uses plenty of string, don't cut your piece too short.

thank you

give it a try!

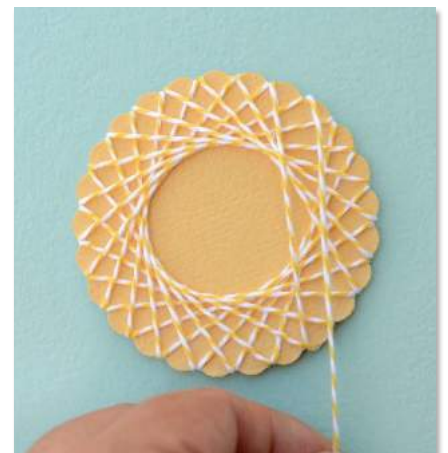

STEP ONE: Adhere end of twine to back of punched or die cut scalloped circle using tape. Pull the twine around to the front between two scallops.

STEP TWO: Count a set amount of scallops and wrap your twine around to the back of the scallop. Bring it back to the front, positioning the twine between the next set of scallops. Count the same number of scallops (in this case, eight) and wrap around back again.

STEP THREE: Continue wrapping until the twine rests in the spaces between each scallop twice. Once complete, adhere twine to the back of scalloped circle; secure in place with tape.

make it mini!

In this season of celebrating blessings, mini albums make an excellent project choice. They're big enough that you can elaborate on the items making your gratitude list, while being small enough that you have a natural beginning and end without the project becoming overwhelming. Our designers have come up with several original minis you can try, whether you're documenting words of thanks or seeking an original holiday gift. BY MEGAN HOEPPNER sketch savvy pg 29 easy, detailed, expert pg 33 creative card techniques pg 37

TECHNIQUE TO TRY:

Alter Chipboard

Chipboard books are a fun album option because they're sturdy and come in cute shapes (like this house design by Maya Road). To dress up those bare pages, use patterned paper. Laura used a page from her album as a tracing template to paper the walls of her mini home. To attach paper to chipboard, try a liquid adhesive or glue stick.

tip: When gluing, remember to smooth out any air bubbles by rubbing from the center of your adhered paper, outward.

grateful for home

BY LAURA VEGAS

supplies CARDSTOCK: American Crafts; PATTERNED PAPER, STICKERS: Close to My Heart; MINI ALBUM: Maya Road; CHIPBOARD: Bella Blvd.; ENAMEL DOTS: Doodlebug Design, Simple Stories; ELECTRONIC CUT FILES: Kerri Bradford Studio; EMBOSSING FOLDER: Sizzix; PUNCH: Stampin' Up!; SPRAY INK: Studio Calico; ADHESIVE: Plaid, Scrapbook Adhesives by 3L.

album 1

thankful for home

Four walls and a roof may form a house, but they're not what makes a home. It's what goes on inside those walls that makes it special. Laura, who works from home, creates from home, and lives life with her family at home, decided to capture just how she feels about the life that takes place under her roof.

album 2

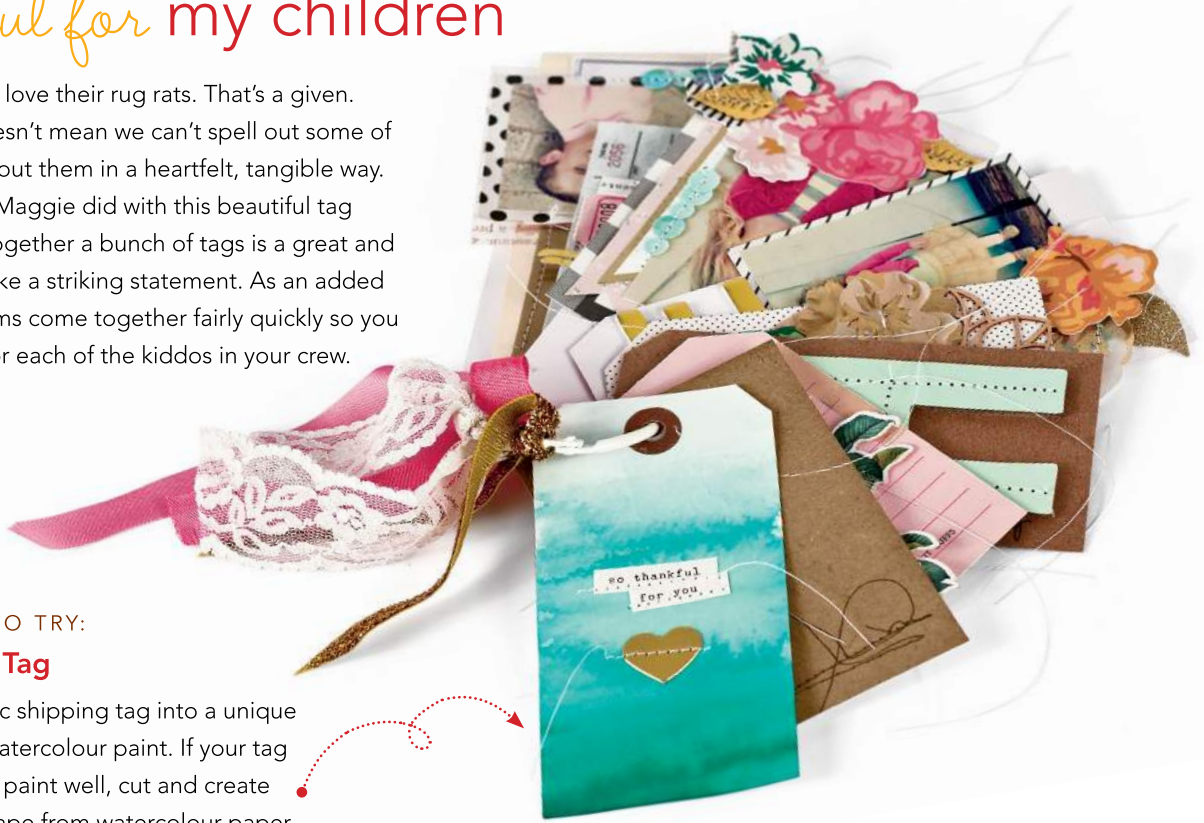

thankful for my children

Sure, parents love their rug rats. That's a given. But that doesn't mean we can't spell out some of what we love about them in a heartfelt, tangible way. That's just what Maggie did with this beautiful tag book. Binding together a bunch of tags is a great and quick way to make a striking statement. As an added bonus, tag albums come together fairly quickly so you can make one for each of the kiddos in your crew.

TECHNIQUE TO TRY:

Watercolour Tag

Transform a basic shipping tag into a unique creation using watercolour paint. If your tag doesn't take the paint well, cut and create your own tag shape from watercolour paper, using a shipping tag as your template.

so thankful for you

BY MAGGIE HOLMES

supplies PATTERNED PAPER, DIE CUT SHAPES, SEQUINS, STICKERS, VELLUM: Crate Paper; TAGS: American Crafts, Crate Paper, Studio Calico; LETTER STICKERS: Crate Paper, Studio Calico, Target; WOOD VENEER: Studio Calico; ADHESIVE, PEN: American Crafts; OTHER: Contact paper, doily, labels, watercolour paint.

album 3

thankful for this year

So much happens during any given year—counting those annual blessings can be overwhelming! Don't let your abundance get you down. Instead, use a desktop album, like this one from Heidi Swapp. Nancy simply placed it on her desk and continually added pages of thanks as the year progressed, leaving her with quite a keepsake at year's end.

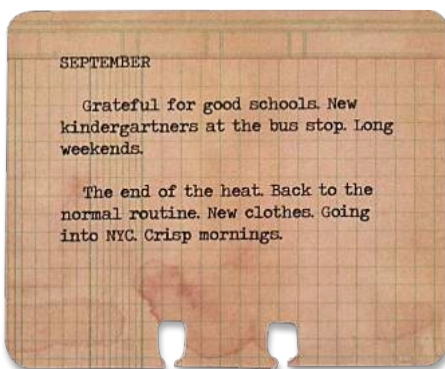

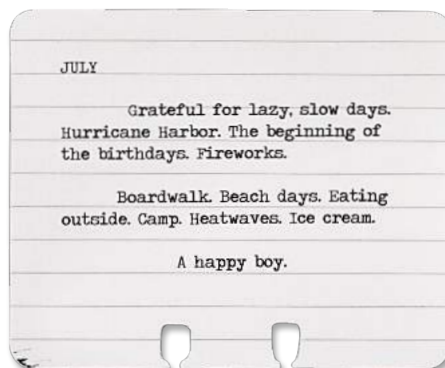

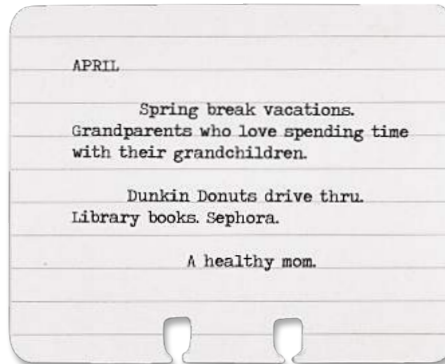

TECHNIQUE TO TRY:

Use the Photo Sleeve Fuse tool by We R Memory Keepers to transform a page protector into a pie chart. First, fuse an X with a horizontal line through its center to create the slices. Next, insert your pie filling (confetti, paper, words, etc.). Fuse to seal your pie and add a flair center to complete the design.

BY NANCY DAMIANO

supplies PATTERNED PAPER: Crate Paper, Heidi Swapp; ALBUM, DIVDER CARDS, INDEX CARDS, PUNCH, TABS: Heidi Swapp; STICKERS: American Crafts, Crate Paper, Elle's Studio, Gossamer Blue, Heidi Swapp, October Afternoon; CHIPBOARD: American Crafts, Crate Paper; ENAMEL DOTS: Crate Paper; DIE CUT SHAPES: Crate Paper, Heidi Swapp, Jenni Bowlin, October Afternoon; STAMPS: American Crafts; Heidi Swapp, Scrapstastic Kit Club; CORK SHAPES: American Crafts, Studio Calico; INK: Studio Calico; WATERCOLOUR PAINT: Artist's Loft; STAPLER, STAPLES: American Crafts; ADHESIVE: Xyron.

album 4

thankful for scrapbooking

Whether you design layouts, make cards, or whittle wood, there is much to appreciate about creating art. Wanting to celebrate her creative life, Nicole filled this Insta Album by Fancy Pants Designs with reasons she's thankful for scrapbooking. What is it you appreciate about your hobbies?

TECHNIQUE TO TRY:

Double-sided Shaker Page

Slide a few sequins and a windowed journaling card (a card with an open center) into a page protector and stitch around the card, capturing the sequins within the stitched space. This creates an album page with motion and playfulness.

live a creative life

BY NICOLE NOWOSAD

supplies PATTERNED PAPER, ALBUM, BUTTONS, DIE CUT SHAPES, JOURNALING CARDS: Fancy Pants Designs; SPECIALTY PAPER: American Crafts, Fancy Pants Designs; CHIPBOARD: Fancy Pants Designs, Studio Calico; LETTER STICKERS: American Crafts, Fancy Pants Designs, Heidi Swapp, Jillibean Soup, Pebbles; STAMPS: Recollections; STICKERS: Crate Paper; CORK SHAPES: Teresa Collins; ENAMEL DOTS: American Crafts, My Mind's Eye, Pebbles, Simple Stories; GEMS: BoBunny; TWINE: May Arts; SPRAY INK: Tattered Angels; ADHESIVE: Therm O Web; OTHER: Ink, rub-ons, sequins, watercolour paint.

album 5

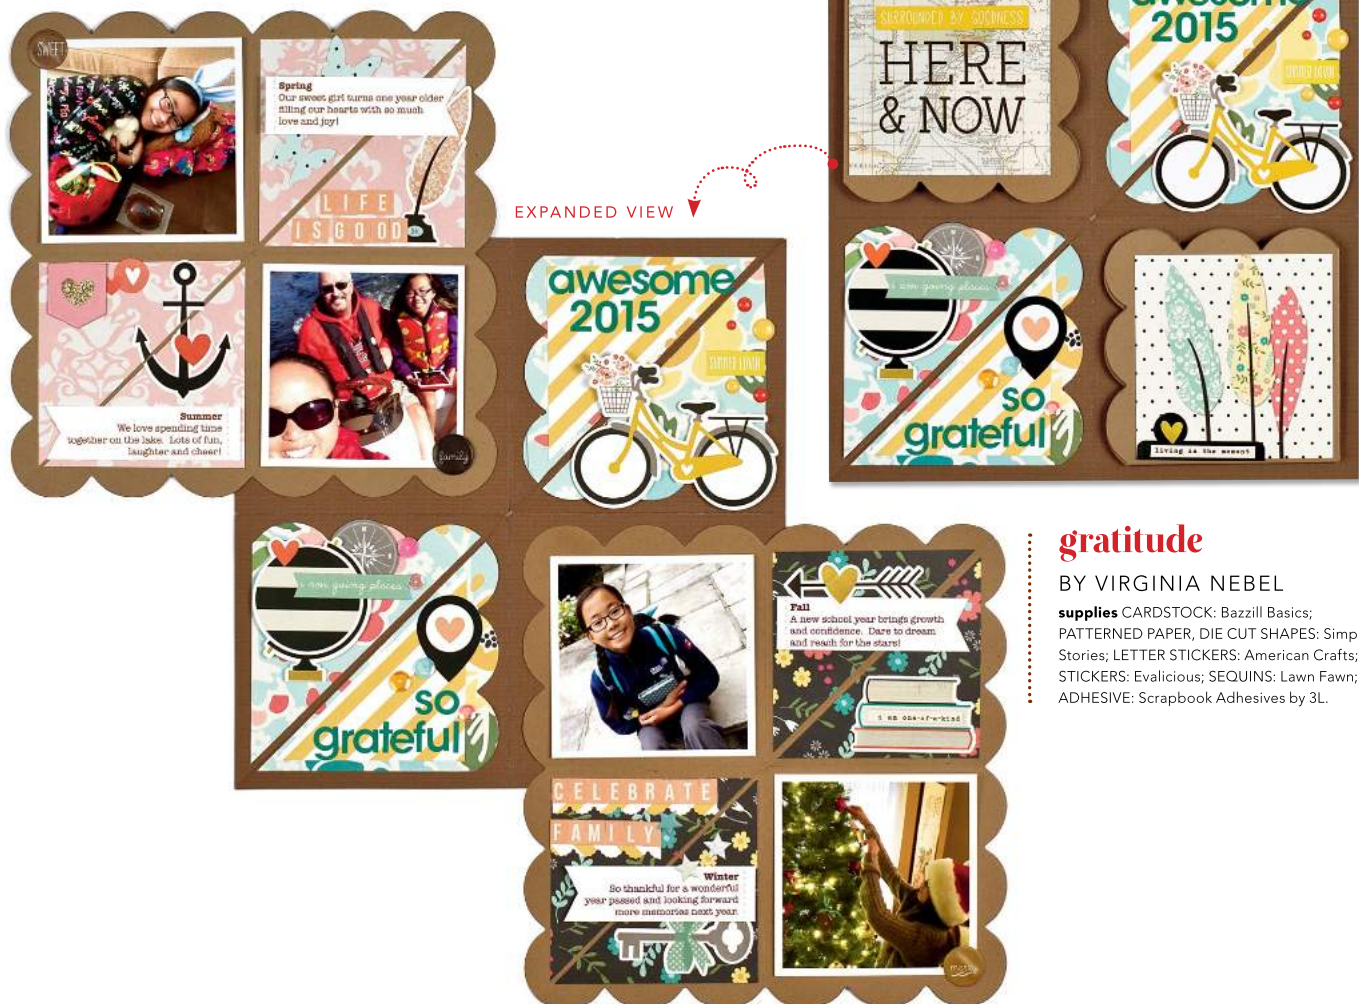

thankful for fall

If the idea of documenting an entire year in a mini is intimidating, consider breaking it up into months or seasons, as Virginia did with her unique fold-up design. Having a special Thanksgiving dinner? This style of gratitude journal would also make an amazing party favour—using its pages to tell your loved ones why you appreciate having them in your life.

TECHNIQUE TO TRY:

DIY Squash Album

Create a fold-up album using just a few sheets of 8½ x 11 cardstock and a few scraps of patterned paper. Virginia has provided easy-to-follow instructions on our website at scrapbookandcards.com/fall-2015.

gratitude

pops of colour and shape connect

Lisa's use of colour and shape tie this two-page spread together. By repeating circles and the colours red, mustard, green, and white she creates a visual path leading the eye across the space. Repetition is one of the best ways to create a cohesively designed page.

tip: Use patterned paper with the same colour scheme for a unified base. Here, the ledger pattern works well with the paper clips because they're both neutral.

a creative gathering

The base of Emily's page is a grouping of symmetrical photos. This provides a solid foundation for her title cluster, which is more playful. She added different embellishments and texture to enhance her title card, and she created a sense of energy by adhering it at an angle. Notice her bits of repetition with the little hearts? They add a quick visual link from the top of the layout to the bottom.

tip: Photo mats add depth to your page and using patterned paper for your mats also adds a pop of colour. This works especially well with black and white photos.

playful but organized

Sarah created a festive fall page using many different products. She grounded the design with one piece of patterned paper, which she used as a mat for her cardstock foundation. She layered on playful elements like journaling cards, wood veneer shapes, buttons, etc. but unified the page by gathering all of the content in a deliberate way. Having an underlying foundation helps to ground a layout and makes your design feel intentional.

tip: Line up your photos on an imaginary horizontal plane. Here, two photos are above that line and two photos and an embellishment are below it. It offers an instant sense of order to a design.

easy, detailed, expert

Whether you're looking for a simple page design you can create when you're short on time or desire more advanced techniques to try, this column has something for you. BY AMY HELLER

My goal with every layout is to keep my photo(s) at the heart of my design. This can be done by simply backing images with journaling cards for quick photo mats or creating interesting paper placement that guides the eye to my images. It all depends on the time I have. Here are a few tips (some quick and easy; others more involved) for designing pages that highlight your favourite snapshots.

easy

I wanted to keep my approach on this page simple, so I decided to back my photos with journaling cards. These cute cards are already designed, cut, and measured to fit, making scrapping quick and easy. I also opted for a design with plenty of white space, which allows my photos to remain the focus of my story.

ideas to fit your time schedule!

To increase the difficulty and creative-factor, I replaced my pre-made journaling cards with strips of patterned paper, which I cut and positioned in an ombre fashion. Cutting strips may take a bit of time, but it's time well spent! Using darker colours on the edges and softer colours in towards the center is an effective way to guide the eye to the focal area of your page.

Sometimes a little artistic play is in order. Sure, it can take more time, but it can also be very enjoyable. Wanting to bring some of that fun into my Expert design, I backed my die cut title with a watercolour wash. I also replaced the straight patterned paper strips with paper weaving. This adds texture and interest while keeping the attention on my images, and it does so in a more playful fashion.

tip: For added texture, add torn strips of vellum and washi tape.

Heat things up with embossing.

BY JENNIFER MCGUIRE

Like a magic trick, heat embossing offers that WOW factor every time. Watching the heat cause the embossing powder to melt and solidify right before your eyes never gets old! What you may not know is there are many wonderful embossing techniques beyond basic heat setting. As the weather cools outside, let's warm things up inside with tips for stepping up this versatile technique.

card 1

COLOUR GRADIENT HEAT EMBOSSING

Heat emboss using various shades of blended powder to create a colourful ombre look.

- 1 Stamp star background onto black notecard using embossing ink.
- 2 Apply red embossing powder to the bottom of the stamped image. Slightly above where the red ends, use your fingers to sprinkle a tiny amount of orange powder.
- 3 Apply orange embossing powder over the red (the colours will blend where they overlap) and to the center area above the red section. Slightly above where the orange ends, use your fingers to sprinkle a tiny amount of yellow powder.
- 4 Apply yellow embossing powder over the remaining area, including the overlap with the orange. Remove excess powder.
- 5 Set embossing powder using a heat tool.
- 6 Stamp balloons and monkey with black ink and colour using markers.
- 7 Colour the eyes and add balloon strings using a black pen. Add highlights using a white pen.
- 8 Stamp greeting.
- 9 Assemble card.

supplies CARDSTOCK: Neenah Paper, Papertrey Ink; EMBOSSING POWDER: American Crafts; STAMPS: Lawn Fawn, My Favorite Things; INK: My Favorite Things, Tsukineko; MARKERS: Copic; PEN: Uniball; OTHER: Adhesive.

card 2

WATERCOLOUR RESIST EMBOSSING

You don't need watercolour paints to achieve a watercoloured look. Instead, try pairing dye ink and water with a heat embossed image to create a striking emboss resist/watercolour effect. Here's the skinny on creating this calming look on your next card:

- 1 Stamp leaves on watercolour paper using embossing ink, apply white embossing powder, and set using a heat tool.
- 2 Generously apply three shades of green water-based ink over the embossed area.
- 3 Spray inked area with a mix of water and Perfect Pearls to blend the ink. This will create a watercolour effect. NOTE: The embossing will resist the moisture and ink, while the pigment powder will leave a shine.
- 4 Let the card dry, and then buff using a cloth.
- 5 Trim and mat the watercoloured piece and adhere it to a green card base.
- 6 Adhere "hello" die cut to card and cover with a layer of dimensional glaze.

supplies CARDSTOCK: Neenah Paper, Papertrey Ink; DIMENSIONAL GLAZE, INK, PIGMENT POWDER, WATERCOLOUR PAPER: Ranger Industries; STAMPS: Winnie and Walter; DIE: Neat and Tangled; OTHER: Adhesive, green cardstock.

card 3

LAYERED EMBOSSING

Create interesting texture and depth by layering your embossing. This works particularly well using stamps that are designed to be layered, such as this Christmas tree. Here's how to emboss three unique layers and complete this card.

- 1 Create stamped and embossed tree piece following the Layered Embossing directions on the next page.
- 2 Ink around embossed piece (from Step 1) and add gold enamel dots.
- 3 Stamp background image on kraft card base using white ink.
- 4 Cut strips to fit width of card from blue and white cardstock.
- 5 Heat emboss the sentiment on white cardstock using gold embossing powder.
- 6 Adhere blue strip, embossed circle element, and white embossed sentiment to the card.

supplies CARDSTOCK: Neenah Paper; INK: Hero Arts, Tsukineko; EMBOSSING POWDER: American Crafts, Hero Arts, Ranger Industries; STAMPS: Impression Obsession, Hero Arts, Neat and Tangled; DIES: My Favorite Things; ENAMEL DOTS: My Mind's Eye; OTHER: Adhesive, blue cardstock.

try this technique!

STEP ONE: Die cut circle from blue cardstock. Stamp base tree image using embossing ink, apply dark green embossing powder, and tip to remove excess powder.

STEP TWO: Set embossing powder using a heat tool.

STEP THREE: Wipe embossed area with an anti-static sheet, such as an Embossing Buddy (shown here).

STEP FOUR: Stamp second tree layer using embossing ink.

STEP FIVE: Apply light green embossing powder and heat set. Wipe area with an anti-static sheet.

STEP SIX: Stamp third layer of tree using embossing ink, apply white embossing powder, and heat set.

stay...for a while

Even if your pets are only with you for a temporary amount of time, they can bring great love into your home. Wanting to capture the joy her foster pups have added to her life, Stacy created this eye-catching photo collage—a lovely tribute to all of the friends she and her family have helped rescue (so far).

tip: Cut your journaling into strips for a quick, creative way to add the story on top of a patterned paper.

a half dozen kitties

Having multiple companions does not mean you have to spend time creating multiple layouts. Try creating a single design that includes all of your furry friends, whether that's two pups or, in Stephanie's case, six kitties!

a pet menagerie

It's a jungle in here! Does your home feel a bit like a wild life rescue with critters of all shapes and sizes? Awesome! Snap a pic of that snapping turtle. Fetch an image of your feisty pup. Unwind a few photos of your feline friends. Combine the images together to show just how much joy fills your life. We can only imagine the fun Marla must have with this crew of cute critters!

tip: Marla created a strong repetitive design by putting her pets' names on white cardstock and adding enamel dots to each piece, allowing the names to stand out in their respective columns.

it's true love

Those puppy dog eyes—they say it all, don't they? This is why you don't need a page full of journaling to show the love you have for your beloved pet. Sometimes a single photo and a simple caption say it all. I mean, look at that face! It's no wonder Tracy is a smitten kitten.

layout 4

tip: Black and white photos evoke a timeless feel. Plus, they allow you to choose products based on colours you love, which isn't always the case when selecting colours to complement a photo.

well, hello there kitty

Just like their owners, pets like routines and have unique habits. In the case of Lisa's kitties, they consistently wander into her craft space and make themselves at home whenever she sits down to create. Happy routines such as this are stories (and pages) in the making. Simply ask yourself what patterns your pet has that you find amusing, charming, or down right annoying. You can bet there's a story there!

A look at documenting the beauty in saying goodbye to things or people in your life. BY ALI EDWARDS Letting go. It's something we all have to do. Sometimes it's super easy, while other times it's incredibly challenging. We let go of little things and big things, of stuff, of people, of feelings, and much more. Each goodbye is part of the bigger story of our lives.

Want a way to document all that you're bidding farewell to this year? Log onto the Scrapbook & Cards Today website, scrapbookandcards.com, to download the free printable Let Go journaling cards I used in my 9-pocket layout on page 53.

photograph

supplies CARDSTOCK: Bazzill Basics; PATTERNED PAPER, PLASTIC WORD: Studio Calico; VELLUM: Webster's Pages; CHIPBOARD: Ali Edwards, Studio Calico; ADHESIVE: 3M.

THIS IS THE story spark

What have you recently said goodbye to in your own life (by choice or not)? A person? A place? A job? A piece of furniture? Tell the story of one of these experiences or combine multiple examples into a list to tell a single story along this common theme.

As we enter this, the last quarter of the year, and transition to a new season, let us document the things we'd like to let go (or have already let go of this year). Recording these events and feelings is a wonderful opportunity for reflection. These are the stories that round out the birthdays, holidays, and other annual occurrences. These are the stories that help make our scrapbooks real and authentic and from the heart.

There's beauty in saying goodbye—in moving forward from people, or thoughts, or things that just aren't working. There's power in acknowledging the things we've outgrown. Sometimes, as the case may be, it's wishing others well who choose to leave us. Such is life. And documenting and celebrating this natural process lends an even richer personal voice to our projects.

ideas to note

- 1 How do you let go? Document your methods for winding down (or up, as my case may be). For this layout, I told the story of a weekend where I "let go" with a little help from Las Vegas.
- 2 This is the kind of photo that many people would discard. It's a bit blurry and there's a lot going on with not much of a focal point. But I love it because it shows me in action—hands in the air—letting go via dancing and singing. If you have a similar photo that is less than perfect, consider adjusting it to black and white using photo editing software. I took this approach with my image, toning down the crazy colours from an indoor evening shot, and I love the results.
- 3 As usual, I focused on three embellishment areas. This creates a visual triangle around the page: a chipboard heart accent + a large title (this time a plastic word) + a chipboard banner leading into my journaling. This is a great way to guide the eye to the areas of most importance on your design.
- 4 To easily frame your layout, add strips of the same patterned paper to the top and bottom of the page.

ideas to note

- 1 What have you learned about letting go? Share your knowledge with those you love (especially your children) in the form of a letter. Letters are an excellent way to pass along information, values, ideas, etc. In this letter, I simply state some of the things I've come to know about letting go—things I think might be of value to Anna in one way or another as she gets older. It's communication and storytelling and documenting all rolled into one.
- 2 Create a stamped border by placing a piece of cardstock over your printed journaling, leaving an even margin exposed. Stamp repeatedly in the exposed margin and then remove your cardstock mask to reveal your frame. Using a date stamp is a clever way to date your heartfelt note.
- 3 When working with two full-page elements, such as a photo and a letter, create a connection between the two independent items by using common embellishments. Here, I've used the same letters and stars to unite the two pages.

ideas to note

- 1 What are you working on letting go of in your own life? Odds are it's more than one thing at any given time. Capture your own list(s) using journaling cards, which you can carry with you and add to as thoughts come to mind.
- 2 To understand the deeper meaning behind saying farewell, I used the prompt "let go of _____ to make room for _____." I find this to be a positive approach to this topic, as it shows that new things are always on their way in.
- 3 Remember, you don't have to include photos to tell a meaningful story. Sometimes the story has a greater impact when it's told with just your words. For a quick approach to this style of scrapbooking, use my free, printable Let Go journaling cards and a divided page protector.

Strong balance is the foundation of any great layout. Let's explore the two key approaches you can take to create beautifully balanced designs. BY CATHY ZIELSKE

When people ask me how they can best improve their layouts, I tell them the same thing: focus on creating beautifully balanced pages. Symmetry and asymmetry provide direction for putting your images and words onto a page in a balanced manner. Let's look at each.

tip: Have you documented your hobbies or obsessions? As I get older, my 15 and 19-year-olds are less excited to be my scrap subjects so I've had to look to other places for my inspiration. Luckily, there are many ways I can document my life, including sharing my hobbies. It's a fun subject and offers a bit about me and my interests at this stage in life.

SYMMETRICAL BALANCE

Symmetry occurs when you have elements and spaces of equal value across a given space. Think of it like this: one side mirrors the other. It doesn't mean you have to use identical elements, but the spaces your words and images are occupying should be roughly the same.

The placement of my photos on this layout is symmetrical and the base that everything else is designed around. The photos are grounded with a white cardstock mat and a 1-inch frame of patterned paper.

Symmetry communicates stability, predictability, and an overall calmness to any design. When the brain sees the inherent logic of a symmetrical design it says, "Yes, this makes sense."

Symmetry can drive the design process, as well. When you know you have a series of square photos, for example, you can place some at the top and some at the bottom. Suddenly, creating a brilliant layout just got a whole lot easier!

succulents

supplies CARDSTOCK: Bazzill Basics; PATTERNED PAPER, DIE CUT SHAPE: Studio Calico; STICKERS: Gossamer Blue; ADHESIVE: Scrapbook Adhesives by 3L, Therm O Web.

layout 2

ASYMMETRICAL BALANCE

Asymmetry occurs when you have elements and spaces of differing values across a given space. Think of it like this: what you have on one side, you don't repeat on the other. With this approach, working with white space can be a playful and unpredictable design experience.

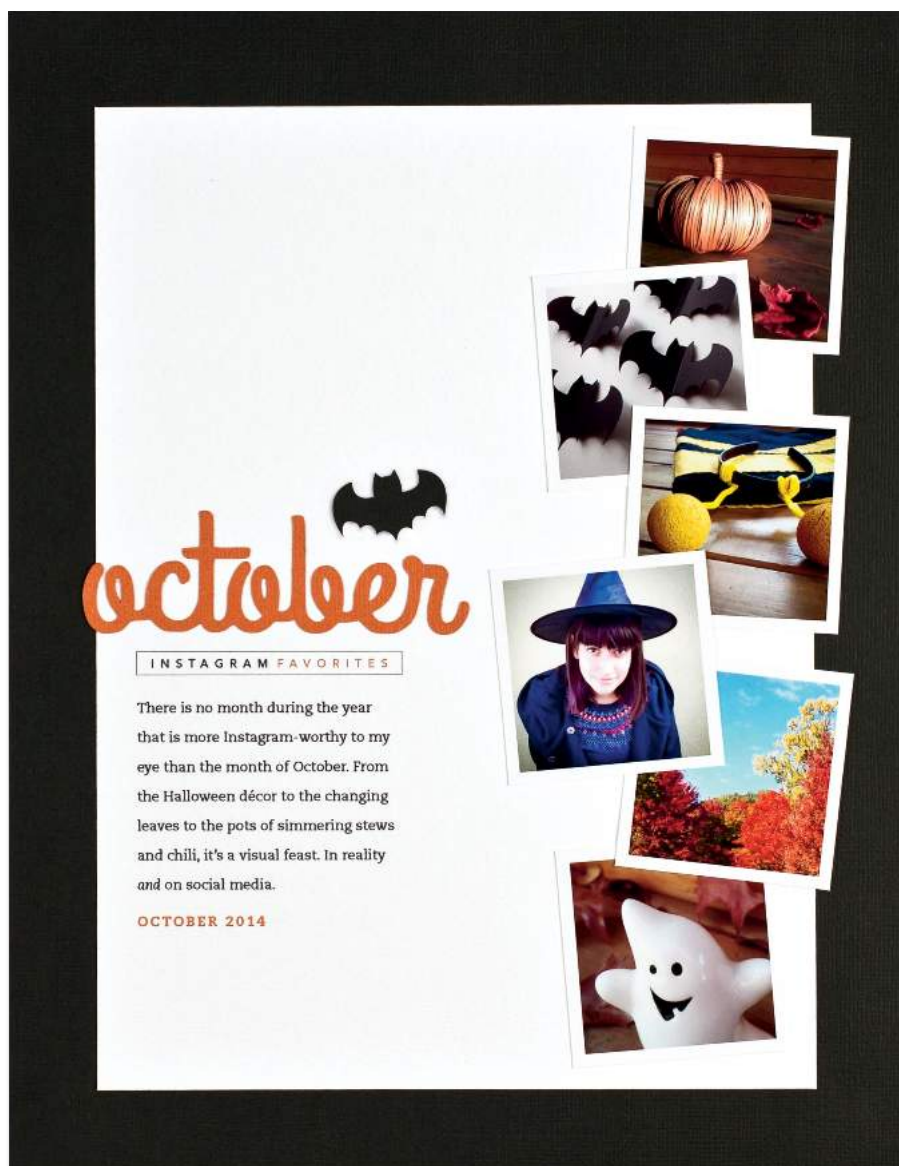

Asymmetry doesn't mean you throw stuff on a page at random. Here, I've created a gathering of overlapping photos on the right and paired that with a title and journaling on the left. These elements are not mirror images and yet the placement, complete with the white space above and below the title, creates a space that feels balanced.

Asymmetry communicates energy, surprise, and motion to a design. When the brain sees an asymmetrical design, it's more challenged and engaged as it works to figure out the visual connections.

- 1 Open a photo in Photoshop Elements, select the Crop Tool, and change the size to 1.75 x 1.75 inches and 300 resolution. Crop the photo.
- 2 Increase your canvas size to 2 x 2 inches. Go to Image > Resize > Canvas Size. Anchor your canvas in the center and choose White as the Canvas Extension Color.
- 3 Create a new document (8.5 x 11 or 6 x 4). Copy your mini photo (Select > All, Edit > Copy) and Paste (Edit > Paste) into the new document.
- 4 Add a stroke to the photo to serve as a trim guide. Go to Layer > Layer Style > Style Settings... and check the Stroke box. Add "1 px" as the size. Click OK and you will see an outline around the photo. Repeat for each photo.
- 5 Print your sheet of mini photos and trim each just inside the line.

card 3

Colour vellum to get the look of stained glass.

- 1 Die cut tree circle from cardstock and circle from vellum. Adhere together.
- 2 Die cut circle ring from black cardstock. (To create a ring, set a large circle die on cardstock and then cut a smaller circle out of it.) You'll want to do this with craft foam too.
- 3 Adhere the tree to the rings.
- 4 Flip tree over. Use markers to colour the backside of the vellum. When you're done you'll have a stained glass window.
- 5 Cut a square from white cardstock. Emboss, round corners, and adhere to black cardstock.
- 6 Round the corners of a card cut from black cardstock. Cut panel of white cardstock to fit on card, round corners, and adhere to card.
- 7 Add tree and square to card.
- 8 Stamp sentiment. Add black gems or enamel dots.

Let the beautiful fall hues inspire your creativity this season. Just as the leaves on the trees transition from green to golden yellow outdoors, a beautiful spectrum of colour brings Kim's layout to life.

When the time comes to flock together with your birds of a feather, set your table in style using adorable paper rosette turkeys. As Marcia's gobbling group proves, you won't need much more than paper, cardstock, and little card holder picks to set the sweetest table in town.

Jennifer bridged the gap between a focal photo and the paper on her scrapbook page using coordinating embellishments. It's a great way to add texture, and you'll only need a bit of paper and a picture to complete your project. Give it a try! We're sure you'll love the ease of this scrapbook sketch, no matter the season.

Halloween is an excellent time to use that themed paper hiding in the back of your closet. As Cap'n Michelle so cutely illustrates here, what may be considered summer paper could be just the ticket for yarrrr next fall project!

ahoy cutie

BY MICHELLE GALLANT

supplies PATTERNED PAPER, DIE CUT SHAPES, FLAIR, STICKERS, WASHI TAPE: October Afternoon; INK: Tsukineko; ENAMEL SHAPES: My Mind's Eye, October Afternoon; ELECTRONIC CUT FILE: The Cut Shoppe; ADHESIVE: Therm O Web; OTHER: Date stamp.

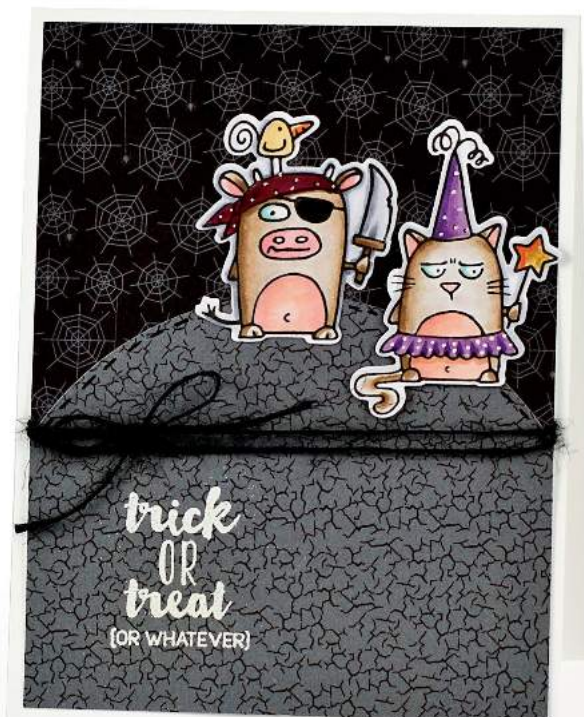

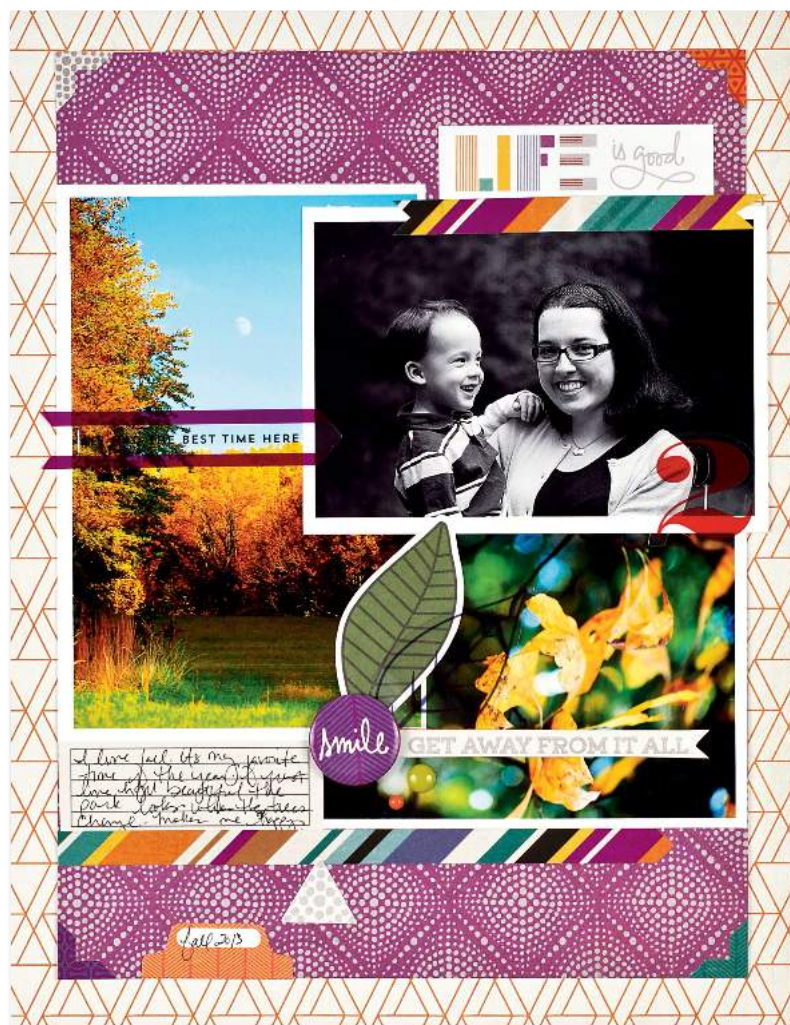

There's nothing quite like the impressive show Mother Nature puts on this time of year to remind us that life IS good. As you're outdoors taking in the fall splendor, take note of that good by snapping and scrapping a few pics. Nicole did, leaving her with this pretty reminder of all life has to offer.

Not all treats have to be sugar-coated.

Instead, send this card trick by Michele to someone you care about. Between the sassy sentiment and the dressed up animals, you're sure to make your recipient's day.

Hello, first day of school! ... Definitely a moment worth capturing in your scrapbook. Make the memory more personal by including a little Q & A each year. If you're feeling stuck on what to ask, check out the things Brenda included on her A+ design.

off to 2nd grade

Not all first-day moments are full of grins. It can be scary starting a new school or school year. If your child is feeling apprehensive, as Lee-Anne's was on his big day, don't be afraid to document that story. Rather than the posed shot, see if you can capture the true feelings they may be experiencing by getting creative with your photography.

grade 10

BY LEE-ANNE THORNTON

The thought of your "baby" leaving for college may have you as a parent or grandparent... ahem, reeling. But it's absolutely a time worth documenting! Snap shots of your big drive to campus, the new dorm, and your proud student sitting on campus. Then put your complete view of the event to work on a photo-filled page as Dedra did with her masterful design.

Deliver a happy hello this Halloween with a trio of grinning cuties. A card like this one by Lee Ann won't scare the wee ones and will easily strike a gourd with the young at heart.

pumpkin trio

BY LEE ANN BARRETT

supplies CARDSTOCK: Stampin' Up!; PATTERNED PAPER: Fancy Pants Designs; STAMPS: Kraftin' Kimmie Stamps; EMBOSSING POWDER, INK: Tsukineko; PAINT: Peerless; TWINE: Hemptique; ADHESIVE: Therm O Web; OTHER: Watercolour paper.

One of the best Halloween treats is the plethora of photo ops that arise. From pumpkin carving to dressing up to your massive candy haul, this is one of the most photo-friendly times of year. But all of those images can make scrapbooking a bit tricky. Follow Davida's lead and use a pocket scrapbook page. It will leave you with plenty of room to share each of your hauntingly happy experiences on a single two-page spread.

hello halloween

BY DAVIDA STAFFORD

supplies PATTERNED PAPER, DIE CUT SHAPES, STICKERS, WASHI TAPE: Bella Blvd.; ENAMEL DOTS: Simple Stories; SEQUINS: Teresa Collins; PEN: Ali Edwards; ADHESIVE: Scrapbook Adhesives by 3L.

amazing

BY JACLYN RENCH

supplies CARDSTOCK: Bazzill Basics; PATTERNED PAPER: American Crafts, Pebbles; PRINTABLE CARDS: CZ Design; WOOD VENEER: Crate Paper, Studio Calico; ENAMEL DOTS: Doodlebug Design; ENVELOPE: Maya Road; ELECTRONIC CUT FILES: Silhouette; ADHESIVE: Stampin' Up!, Tombow.

Do you have multiple photos you'd like to include on a single layout?

Create a photo grid. The quick tip here, which Jaclyn so perfectly illustrates, is to use close-up images. By keeping your focus on your subjects, you won't lose any of the details, even when creating a layered collage.

Perhaps Halloween isn't your scene.

That doesn't mean you can't send a little fall fun someone's way. Debbie's everyday autumn greeting is an adorable option when it comes to sending a little warmth as the days cool.

happy fall ya'll

what's next...

The weather outside may be frightful, but what you'll find inside our winter issue will be absolutely delightful. Here are just a few of the things you can look forward to:

- * As the weather cools, we'll look at piling on the layers...the scrapbooking layers, that is, with plenty of innovative tricks to try
- * A special holiday card edition of our popular Sketch Savvy column
- * Shake, shake, shake, Señora! You won't want to miss our interactive shaker project ideas
- * The benefits of working with transparencies will be made crystal clear in our Creative Card Techniques column

If there's one thing to believe in, it's holiday crafting! This is such a special time of year to create. From handmade gifts and cards to scrapbook pages showcasing those happy holiday photos, you'll find plenty of inspiration in our Winter 2015 issue. Enjoy the magic!

font finds

Journaling is meant to be read and this list of fonts offers terrific choices for putting your stories into print. Think outside the Times New Roman box and give one of these typefaces a spin the next time you add printed journaling to your layouts.

Journaling

OPEN SANS, fontsqirrel.com

This font is clean, easy to read, and comes in multiple styles and weights. In short, Open Sans is great for journaling AND creating matching titles.

Journaling

PT SANS, fontsqirrel.com

Here's another sans serif typeface that works well for journaling. It also comes in various weights and is very easy to read.

Journaling

HABIBI, fontsqirrel.com

This serif typeface borrows its style from classic fonts, but stylizes the letters with a bit of contrast. This font would be perfect for your next journaling block—give it a try!

KAMERON, fontsqirrel.com

This font is a slab serif typeface, meaning it has square-ish feet and tails. Kameron adds a more modern feel to your pages while retaining its readability at smaller, journaling sizes. Slab serif fonts are really trendy right now and would be a welcome addition to your next holiday page.

App: Artifact Uprising

"Off Your Device; Into Your Life." This is the mission at Artifact Uprising (AU), where they're working to get files off your phone and into printed products. The app, which pulls images directly from your camera roll, Instagram, and Dropbox, offers several output options for your images including: soft-cover photo books, square photo prints, wood blocks + prints, and thank you cards. If you don't own an Apple device, don't fret. You can order these items and many more directly from the AU website. Whether you order from your phone or your computer, the finished look is sleek and professional with heavy weight paper and high quality printing. You're already telling your story on your phone with the daily photos you take. Why not transform those real-life stories into something tangible that you can enjoy and pass on to the next generation? This app makes it possible and easy.
